3Q Review: Strong 3Q Results Overshadowed By Ramping AI Infrastructure Spend

THE TD COWEN INSIGHT

META 3Q rev & Op Inc. were +4% & +5% vs cons ests on strong pricing & volume growth. 4Q rev guide was 3% above cons est (high end) amid AI-driven gains to engagement & monetization engines. Mgmt. raised '25 capex & opex guides, and now expects accel'ing '26 opex growth & higher y/y dollar capex growth amid ramping compute. We raised opex & capex outlook; PT to $810, maintain Buy, shares (6%) AH.

3Q25 Rev and Op. Income Ahead of Est's on Strong Pricing & Impression Growth: META 3Q25 rev growth of 26.2% y/y, and 25% x-FX (accelerating vs +22% y/y in 2Q25), was 1.7% and 3.5% above our and consensus estimates. Ad rev was 3.2% above consensus as Reels revenue run rate reached $50BN, up from $10BN as cited in 2Q23. Op. Inc. of $20.5BN grew 18% y/y, ahead of our / cons est's of $19.9BN / $19.5BN, while EPS of $7.25 (ex-1x $16BN tax charge) was above cons. $6.72 estimate.

Mgmt. cited further improvements to recommendation systems which drove accelerating time spent growth on both FB and IG in 3Q, up double digits y/y for both platforms in the US as Video time spent grew 30%+ y/y on IG. META's improving recommendation models are being fed with a growing pool of content supported by AI creative tools, driving overall impressions higher (up 14% y/y in 3Q). Meanwhile, monetization was supported by AI ranking systems which led to a now $60BN+ ann. rev run rate through automated ad solutions in Meta's Advantage+ ad suite; this supported avg. pricing growth of 10% y/y in 3Q.

4Q25 Rev Guide Lands +3% vs Street Estimate at High End: 4Q25 rev guide of $56BN to $59BN, +16% to +22% y/y, was 3% above cons pre-print est at high end (incl. a 1pt FX tailwind). The guide implies decelerating ad growth on tougher y/y comps. Looking forward, mgmt. called out opportunity to continue improving recommendation and ranking systems to improve both engagement and monetization into '26.

META Raises '25 Expense Guide; Compute to Drive '26 Investment Higher: Mgmt raised the low end of their '25 capex guide to $70BN-$72BN, up from $66BN-$72BN prior and vs. our pre-print $72.5BN est., reflecting 91% y/y spend growth at midpoint. Mgmt's outlook implies 4Q capex +20.5% q/q at midpoint, reflecting ramping AI infrastructure as CEO Zuckerberg cited ambition to become the leading frontier AI lab supported by eventual industry-leading compute capacity. For '26, mgmt. expects capex dollar growth will be "notably larger" than in '25, reflecting compute needs ahead of what was expected as of the 2Q print. We raised our '26 capex est by 22% to $124BN vs. $71BN in '25 and vs. $37BN in '24.

For opex, mgmt. raised low end of their '25 guide to $116BN-$118BN, up from $114BN-$118BN prior and vs. our pre-print est. of $116.3BN. For '26, mgmt. expects that opex will grow at a "significantly faster" % vs '25, supported by incremental infrastructure costs (Cloud expenses and depreciation) followed by employee comp. costs. We raised our '26 opex estimate by 20% to $154.8BN, up 32% y/y vs. ~24% y/y estimated growth in '25.

Raising Expenses, Price Target to $810: We raised our '26 opex and capex estimates by 20% and 22%, respectively, while also raising our '26 revenue forecast by 3% on solid 3Q25 revenue and 4Q25 guide. We extended these changes out longer term, driving our Op. Income forecast lower by an avg. 11% annually from '26 to '30. Our DCF-derived PT goes to $810 from $875 prior; maintain Buy rating.

AT A GLANCE

Our Investment Thesis

We view META as the premier social advertising platform, which is itself becoming a more strategic component of an advertising campaign. META has 3.5BN Daily Active People using its family of apps, and that number continues to grow steadily. Instagram comprises ~2BN MAUs and continues to be a major source of growth. Our survey work has demonstrated that META has high functional capabilities across analytics and ad formats and consistently demonstrates a high ROI. META has established a strong mobile capability, and we expect further monetization levers in 2025, including advertising on Reels, AI services, and business messaging. Additionally, we think there are other ad formats and products that will be introduced longer term.

Forthcoming Catalysts

Rising Mobile advertising revenue, Video advertising, Reels & Threads monetization, and AI solutions. We expect IG to continue to increase its user count, which should serve as a longer-term catalyst. Given ongoing macro pressure, we would also look for additional color as user and economic trends evolve.

Base Case Assumptions

We forecast ~13% annual revenue growth '25-'30E, driven by 13% advertising & 15% Reality Labs (RL) annual revenue growth. We view Ad revenue growth as driven largely by Video and Instagram. We expect EBITDA margins to decline from 41% in FY25E to 32% in FY30E.

Upside Scenario

It is possible that Reels advertising monetization takes place more rapidly than we anticipate. If the RL segment is able to make faster progress toward profitability, it could drive earnings upside vs our current estimates. In addition, we have not factored WhatsApp into our current model, though we do reflect costs associated with that segment.

Downside Scenario

If user growth, engagement or rising monetization are slower than expected, our estimates may prove to be too high. If investments needed to build out the RL segment and other long-term initiatives are greater than we anticipate then there could be downside risk to our estimates.

Company Description

META is engaged in building products to create utility for users, developers, and advertisers. People use META's Family of Apps products to stay connected with their friends and family, to discover what is going on in the world around them, and to share and express what matters to them to the people they care about. Developers can use the Family of Apps platforms (including Facebook, Instagram, & others) to build applications and websites that integrate with META's apps to reach its global network of users and to build personalized and social products. It offers advertisers a combination of reach, relevance, social context and engagement.

Infrastructure Spend to Satisfy Wide Range of AI Outcomes, per Mgmt: CEO Mark Zuckerberg cited his ambition to become the leading frontier AI lab supported by eventual industry-leading compute capacity. On the call, Zuckerberg outlined how Meta's infrastructure buildout positions them well for varying AI outcomes: i) If "superintelligence" comes sooner than expected, Meta will be best positioned to support ramping compute requirements; ii) In a middle case, if superintelligence takes longer than expected, Meta can continue to utilize AI capacity to power their core advertising and business AI ventures, while also taking advantage of high demand for compute externally, per mgmt.; iii) In a downside case, Meta can slow infrastructure building and continue to drive core business revenue.

3Q25 Revenue Growth: META's total 3Q25 revenue was $51.2BN, +26.2% y/y, 3.5% above cons. ests and +1.7% vs our forecast. Advertising rev was $50.0BN, +25.6% y/y (and +25% x-FX), 3.2% ahead of cons forecast. Ad revenue strength was led by balanced growth in impressions, which accelerated to +14% y/y vs. +11% y/y in 2Q25, and pricing, up 10% y/y vs. +9% y/y in 2Q25.

In terms of ad rev by geo, META saw strength across regions; the biz was led by 31% y/y Rest of World growth and 29% y/y Europe growth. North America ad rev grew 23% y/y while APAC rev grew 24% y/y.

3Q25 Margins/EPS: Op. Income was $20.5BN, +18.4% y/y, and 3% / 5% above our / consensus estimates driven by the topline beat and lower-than-expected Marketing & Sales, offset by higher G&A as driven by elevated legal charges. META headcount of 78.5K grew 3% q/q, driven by employees within monetization, infrastructure, FRL, Meta Superintelligence Labs, and regulation & compliance. 3Q25 GAAP Op. Inc. margin of 40.1% (vs 42.7% in 3Q24) came in above our 39.6% estimate. META reported GAAP EPS of $7.25 when excluding the $15.9BN one-time tax charge related to the One Big Beautiful Bill Act, vs our/cons. $6.78/$6.72.

META Family of Apps Daily Active People +1.7% Q/Q: 3Q25 Family of Apps Daily Active people totaled 3.54BN, +8% y/y and +1.7% q/q. Family of Apps Average Revenue per Person was $14.46 in 3Q25, up 17.7% y/y. Mgmt. cited continued community and engagement growth on Threads in 3Q, which now has over 150MM DAUs (>350MM MAUs on Threads as of 1Q25) as time spent on the platform grew 10% y/y thanks to recommendation improvements. Within Meta AI, which has over 1BN users, mgmt. called out their newly launched Vibes platform, which lets users share AI generated content and is seeing solid user retention, per mgmt.

Strong Engagement Growth Continues Amid Improving Recommendation Systems: Mgmt reported Ad impression growth of +14% y/y, up vs 2Q25's +11% y/y growth and vs +5% y/y in 1Q25. Impression growth was led by 23% y/y APAC growth, followed by 9% y/y ROW growth, 9% y/y Europe impression growth, and 8% y/y UCAN growth. Looking forward, mgmt. noted further opportunity to drive recommendation gains in '26; one initiative will include META expanding content to a wider set of topics and interests on Instagram, a change which has driven positive impact after having been introduced on Facebook. Additionally, Meta will increasingly use LLM's to better label videos with keywords and topics that can drive more relevant recommendations for users.

Robust Pricing Growth Persists Amid Improving Ad Performance: Ad pricing grew 10% y/y, accelerating slightly vs +9% y/y in 2Q25 and vs +10% y/y in 1Q25, amid monetization improvements as noted above. Mgmt. called out positive impact from the launch of streamlined campaign creation within their Advantage+ ad suite in 3Q, marking an ongoing shift towards more automation in the ad buying process. META also saw increasing uptake of their video generation tools within Advantage+ in 3Q, with the number of advertisers using the feature up 20% q/q. Looking to '26, mgmt. plans to drive further ad ranking improvements, in part through increasing data and compute used to train recommendation models.

3Q25 Reality Labs Revenue Beats Estimates on Holiday Quest Orders: Reality Labs (FRL) revenue of $470MM, +74% y/y, came in ahead of our $319MM est. Meanwhile, FRL reported an operating loss of $4.43BN in 3Q25, flat vs the year ago period and vs ($4.53BN) in 2Q25. The 3Q Reality Labs revenue growth comprised Retailer orders of Quest VR headsets ahead of the holiday season. Growth was also supported by the updated Ray-Ban Meta AI glasses and newly launched Oakley Vanguard glasses. Mgmt. also called out high initial demand for the Meta Ray-Ban Display glasses, noting that the glasses sold out in nearly every available store within 48 hours of launch. Recall that at their September Connect conference, Meta launched the Meta Ray-Ban Display glasses with Neural Band control. The product became available for sale later in the month.

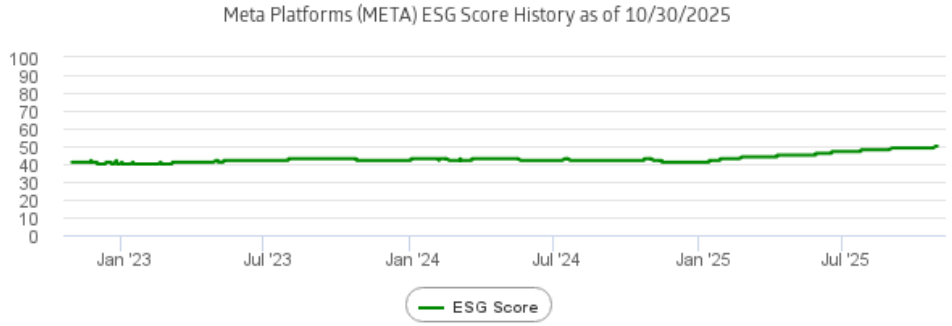
Meta Platforms(META) ESG Material Category Rankings as of October 30, 2025

Top 3 Material ESG Categories	Dynamic Materiality ™	Score
Customer Privacy	30%	53
Legal Regulation	13%	51
Data Security	10%	44



ESG performance is scored on a 0 to 100 scale. A score of 50 represents a neutral impact. Scores above 50 indicate more positive performance, and scores below reflect more negative performance. A blank chart means the company has an ESG performance score of N/A. A score of N/A means not enough data is available on the company to generate a score.

ESG MATERIALITY

Establishing materiality is critical to evaluating a company's ESG performance. Factors most material in one sector (or to a particular company) may not be as important to another. In addition, the factors that are material – and the degree to which factors are material – can change over time.

Applying data to frameworks established by SASB (the Sustainability Accounting Standards Board) and by FactSet, we present in the chart above the three most material ESG factors that investors should focus on for the company that is the subject of this report; the Dynamic Materiality™ of each factor (i.e., what percentage of overall materiality the category represents for the subject company); and a Score for the subject company in each of these three categories (on a 0 to 100 basis, with 50 being average).

We also calculate an overall ESG Score for the subject company, which is presented above (in green) and on the cover of this report. A full explanation of how this ESG Score is derived is presented below.

HOW ARE TD COWEN'S ESG SCORES CALCULATED?

200,000+ SOURCES → 4,500,000+ DATA POINTS processed per month → 300,000 SIGNALS generated monthly → SCREENED BY ESG FRAMEWORK → 0-100 SCORE CALCULATED

TD Cowen leverages technology from FactSet to generate our ESG scores. Truvalue uses artificial intelligence to capture the stakeholder view of how companies are performing on ESG metrics, using the Sustainability Accounting Standards Board (SASB) materiality framework (www.sasb.org). These data are leveraged to calculate a score for each company, which allows TD Cowen to have a common framework and uniform way to approach ESG discussions with our clients. TD Cowen ESG scores appear on Company and Company Quick Take notes and are updated daily.

HOW DOES THE PROCESS WORK?

The process begins with capturing unstructured data from more than 200,000 sources, in 38 languages. These data are culled from a wide range of sources with varied perspectives, including industry publications, news outlets, NGOs, trade unions, government sources, legal and regulatory filings, and academic publications.

Natural language processing is used to interpret semantic content from the original sources and generate analytics by applying criteria consistent with established sustainability and ESG frameworks. Performance is scored on a 0 to 100 scale. A score of 50 represents a neutral impact. Scores above 50 indicate more positive ESG performance, and scores below reflect more negative ESG performance. A score of NA means not enough data is available on the company to generate a score.

VALUATION METHODOLOGY AND RISKS

Valuation Methodology

Internet & New Media:

Our valuation methodology is primarily based on Discounted Cash Flow analysis, comparable company multiples such as EV/FCF, EV/EBITDA, and P/E, and sum-of-the-parts analysis (for companies with ownership stakes in other equities or significant assets such as patents/IP). However, this varies by company; for instance, we will often use EV/Revenue for high-growth companies that have recently entered the public equity markets.

We make investment recommendations on certain early stage, pre-revenue companies based upon an assessment of their business model, technology, probability of market success, and the potential market opportunity, balanced by an assessment of applicable risks. Such companies may not be assigned a price target.

Investment Risks

Internet & New Media:

The industry in which our companies operate is fiercely competitive and technological change is rapid. All of our companies face the risk that they are unable to keep pace with new innovations or that new innovations impact competitive positioning. Additionally, our companies are international operators and are therefore exposed to currency fluctuations and other factors associated with operating in a foreign territory. Finally, our names sit within the advertising industry more broadly and are exposed to the same seasonality and macro trends as the rest of the group, including competition from TV and other offline channels.

Risks To The Price Target

Our largest downside fear related to META is that engagement begins to flag. The network has 3.5BN Daily Active People, but negative engagement trends, driven in part by growing competition, would be concerning. META's long-term success lies partially in their ability to attract younger users, who have recently expressed interest in emerging platforms like TikTok.

Regulatory concerns - both in the US and internationally - will likely be an overhang for the stock for the foreseeable future, in our view.

If META is unable to manage cost growth as effectively as we expect, namely in their Reality Labs segment, there could be downside risk to our current Op. Income and EPS estimates.
